

Disclaimer

Liability

All persons who have access to and who use the website of Division Management and Design irrespective of purpose, agree to abide by the rules set out below.

Division Management and Design takes every possible care concerning the information contained on the website. It is possible, however, that the website and the websites linked to it, contain inaccuracies and errors.

Division Management and Design accepts no responsibility whatsoever for damage pursuant to the use or incompleteness of information published on this website, nor for problems caused by the use or propagation of information. Division Management and Design accepts no responsibility for loss, privation of income to the use or propagation of information or to technical deficiencies.

We accept no responsibility for the downloading of information from this site.

Copyright

Unless mentioned otherwise, the information on this website is owned by Division Management and Design. Text, design, images, illustrations, scripts, articles and other items on this website are protected by copyright.

It is expressly forbidden to copy, adapt, translate, edit or change the website partly or as a whole. It is also forbidden to use parts of this website on any other website, in any form, unless written permission is first obtained from Division Management and Design. A written application should be addressed to Division Management and Design at contact@dvsngroup.com.

We have attempted to contact and seek permission from all owners of images and other material used on this website. It might be that we have overlooked someone. If you see material on this website for which you can prove you are the legal owner, and wish this material to be removed from the website, again, please contact Division Management and Design at contact@dvsngroup.com.